Derby Parade Will Feature Napier Band

The M. C. Napier High School Band is off to the races.

Two busloads of eager musicians, chaperons and parents left M. C. Napier High School at 1 o'clock this morning headed for Louisville and the Kentucky Derby Parade.

Under the direction of Miss Barbara Martin, the Napier band is the only one from this section of the state to take part in this year's parade.

Sixty playing members, 4 majorettes, the drum major, 3 Indian warriors, 2 Indian maidens and the Navajo chief will make up the marching unit scheduled to begin marching at 7:30 p.m. through downtown Louisville.

Local people will get an opportunity to see the parade live as Louisville and Lexington T.V. stations will carry the parade this year.

The band will be quartered at Camp Crescendo while in the Derby City.

Nine chaperons made the trip to the big event. They were: Mrs. Ruth Maggard, Mrs. Ruby Combs, Mrs. Betty Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fortney, Mrs. Caloway Combs, the bus drivers Carter Campbell and John M. Eversole and the director, Miss Martin.

The Napier band is due back here at 8:30 p.m. Friday night but their travels will not be over. Saturday morning at 6:30 a.m. the much enthusiastic music makers will head for Pikeville High School where they will take part in the State Music Festival where they took a superior rating a year ago.

Eighteen bands will compete in the music festival including: Mullins High School; Betsy Lane; Feds Creek; Elkhorn City; Johns Creek; McDowell; Virgie; Pikeville; Mullins Junior High; Dorton; Maytown; Phelps; Wayland; Wheelwright; Belfry; Prestonsburg; Salsyville and M. C. Napier.

Children's Home and Bible School Board Members

These are some of the men who direct the affairs of the Open Door Children's Home and the newly-established Appalachian Training Center. From the left, they are Daniel Maddalena, the Rev. R. E. Coston, the Rev. James Bender, Cordell Martin and Richard Bender. At extreme right is Professor J. E. Valastak of the Grand Rapids, Michigan Bible College, who is being considered for the presidency of the new Training Center. The building in the background is the old Stuart Robinson School gymnasium.

Bible College May Start In September

The first formal, public announcement of establishment of the Appalachian Training Center on the old Stuart Robinson School grounds was made last Sunday by its prospective president, Professor J. E. Valastak of the Grand Rapids, Michigan Bible College to a crowd of about 300 in the school gymnasium.

Professor Valastak was in the Letcher community last week-end to look the campus over and discuss with the new institution's Board of Directors an invitation to assume the presidency of the "educational" arm of the Training Center.

He has not yet made a final commitment to accept the job. But in a talk to the gathering of community residents, he generally outlined the structure and the aims of Appalachian Training Center, and indicated that the institution might open next fall.

The Training Center will be governed by the same board which oversees the Open Door Children's Home at Cornettsville.

Plans to move the Open Door Children's Home from Cornettsville to the campus are being worked out now, according to a spokesman for the Home.

He said they hoped to move the children to the campus soon, and later construct permanent cottage-type residences for them.

But although the Appalachian Training Center intends to provide for underprivileged children, Professor Valastak made it plain that that would be only one phase of the Center's operation.

Essentially divided into "educational" and "non-educational" branches, the Center will operate facilities for vocational training, as well as run a Bible college and, later, a four-year liberal arts college leading to a degree, the Professor said.

The Rev. James Bender, pastor of the Ivis Baptist Church near Hindman and a member of the Center's Board, was moderator of the Sunday program that featured religious music and scripture readings.

In calling upon the people of the community to support the Appalachian Training Center, the Rev. Bender said "We're depending upon the Lord and you."

"An attempt is being made to fulfill your wishes," he told the audience, and invited it to feel free to offer suggestions for the operation of the new institution.

Several in the crowd offered to volunteer their services in putting the campus and the buildings back into shape that had fallen into disrepair after Stuart Robinson closed its doors in 1959.

Boone Boy Industries, Inc., a furniture manufacturing concern employing 20 people, is moving out of its headquarters in the basement of the school's gymnasium.

Death Car

Members of the Hazard Fire Department and Perry County Rescue Squad are shown putting out the fire that destroyed the car of Hensley Miller Jr. Miller and Miss Mary Ellen Combs were found dead in the car around 5:30 this morning in a hollow near Bonnyman.

Two Are Found Dead In Burning Automobile

The bodies of two Bonnyman residents, charred beyond recognition, were found this morning in a burning car near Dunn's Grocery Store at Bonnyman.

Dead are Hensley Miller, Jr., 39, and Mary Ellen Combs, 19. According to Hazard Fire Chief Lawrence "Shorty" Sizemore, the Perry County Rescue Squad and the Hazard Fire Department were called to Bonnyman about 5:50 a.m. today when the two were seen inside the burning car.

Sizemore said they apparently were already dead of carbon monoxide poisoning before the flames erupted.

Nearby residents reported they saw Miller's car go into a ditch while backing out of a hollow near Dunn's Grocery about 10:30 last night. They said that after failing to get the car out of the ditch, Miller and Miss Combs got back inside and left the motor running.

Witnesses said that the motor was still running at 3:30 this morning.

Sizemore theorized that a dropped cigarette caused the car to catch fire, probably after the two had already been overcome by carbon monoxide fumes.

Miller, who was manager of the Chandelier at Bonnyman, survived by his wife Ava Nell Miller of Chicago; two sons and one daughter.

An aunt, Mrs. London Clemons, with whom he made his home, also survives.

Funeral arrangements are complete, the Maggard Funeral Home is in charge.

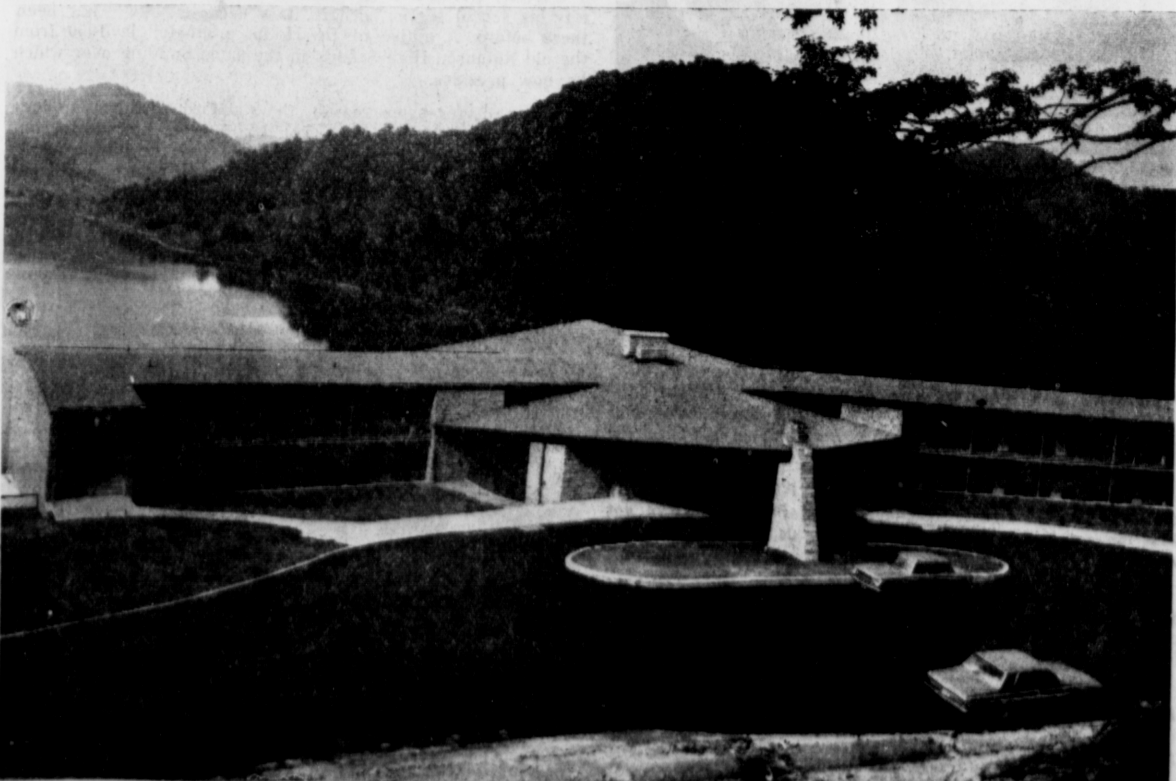

Funeral arrangements for Miss Combs have not been completed as yet.

Robinson School's Library

These 6th graders at Robinson Elementary School are using a corner of their new library, installed by an energetic PTA, with the cooperation of the County School Board and book donors that most recently included Senator John Sherman Cooper. Senator Cooper sent the library 300 excess books from the Library of Congress. Note newspaper rack at left, and shelf of reference books at left rear. Last week Robinson's PTA was among 8 out of 840 state schools to receive the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers "200 Per Cent Award," for maximum membership of parents in the school's PTA. The school is featured in an article on today's editorial page, the first of a series.

Buckhorn State Park Opens Saturday

The Lodge At Buckhorn State Park

Lake and Lodge

Ready For Guests

Buckhorn Lake State Park, near Hazard, will begin its 1965 season May 1.

Robert D. Bell, State parks commissioner, said that Buckhorn had 239,244 visitors last year, more than 50,000 above the 1963 attendance.

"Much of this increase," Bell added, "was a result of the new 24-room lodge there."

The lodge, complete with dining room and souvenir and gift shop, was dedicated last August.

Buckhorn Lake State Park's 4,903 acres also offer easy access to a 1,230-acre lake, a beach, bath house, boat dock, playground, picnic shelter with rest rooms, hiking trails, and other facilities.

Reservations can be made direct with any park or by calling the Central Reservation Office at Frankfort. Free local lines are available to the Frankfort office from Louisville (583-9796), Lexington (252-4913), and the Covington-Cincinnati area (261-2643). Those unable to use these lines can call the Frankfort office at 223-2326.

Strip Mined Land Is Restorable, Conference Says

The watershed management conference that was held in Hazard yesterday revealed that strip mined land can be restored.

But according to Robert May, leader of the experimental project, the restoration must be "sufficiently financed." He indicated that in some cases the costs could be prohibited.

May with headquarters at the central states agency, said the purposes of about 40 studies in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky were twofold.

1. To develop practical means of reducing damage to water, wildlife, recreation, timber and range resources during mining operations.

2. To restore the lands and repair the damages after the mining. During a discussion of May's report it was suggested that damage to fishing streams occurred during strip mining and that restoration of the land after mining wouldn't help.

It was also learned that project workers have nearly completed a survey that will show the total acreage of land "disturbed" by stripping in Eastern Kentucky.

The conference, attended by watershed managers from 10 states concluded today with a tour of stripped lands in Perry and Knott counties.

10th District PTA Wins Top Award

The Georgiana Lattin' Loving Cup for the largest percentage of gain in membership in Kentucky was presented to the Tenth District of the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers at the Convention of the Kentucky Congress held at the Brown Hotel, Louisville, April 19-21.

Mrs. Norman P. Cornett, a member of the Hazard PTA and District President received the cup.

In addition to the trophy, a Twin Oak or 200% Membership award was given to Robinson Elementary PTA. Out of a total of 840 local units consisting of 227,228 members, only eight local units received this award.

The 100% or Oak Tree Award was given to Dennis C. Darlan W. Hubbard, of Hallie, Wootton Elementary, Hazard and Robinson Elementary PTA's. Approximately twenty of these were given throughout Kentucky. The Hazard PTA was recognized as being in the Upper Twelve Honor Roll (largest units in the State).

At the Life Membership Dinner held on Tuesday evening, Mrs. Karl Bader, State Scholarship Chairman announced the names of five teachers in the Tenth District as recipients of the $100.00 Summer-term Scholarships to Teachers given annually by the State Congress of Parents and Teachers. These included Mrs. Oveta Baser, Roy G. Eversole Elementary, Lloyd G. Colwell, M. C. Napier High School, Mrs. Lloyd G. Colwell, Yerkes School, Mrs. Mary June Couch, Robert W. Combs Elementary and Mrs. Darlan W. Hubbard, of Hallie, Letcher County. Chairman of the District Scholarship Committee, is Mrs. J. W. Jarrell, Walkertown PTA and former past president of the district.

In addition to the above awards, the Tenth District was presented with over seventy awards to be given to local units at the Fall Conference to be held in Hazard sometime during the month of October. These were in the fields of Civil Defense, Safety, Health and Mental Health, publications and Juvenile Protection.

OUR READERS WRITE

A Challenge To The People

A LETTER TO THE PEOPLE

I would like to take this opportunity to put forth a challenge to the people of Perry County. I have been deeply concerned with the political situation in our County, but more concerned about spiritual conditions. As a minister I feel obligated to warn people of the consequences of criticism which is not justified. On every hand I hear sharp criticism being heaped upon our public officials, from the highest office to the lowest. I realize this is an election year and that much will be said which is not necessarily true, but the daily, constant criticism is what I am so concerned about, and I pray that I can put forth a challenge that will carry some conviction to the people.

I also realize that all people are not Christians, so I am putting this challenge to those who claim the name of Christian. I believe there are enough good Christian people in Perry County to change any situation which is undesirable. I do not advocate physical action, but I firmly advocate PRAYER action. In God's Word the Christian is commanded and exhorted to pray for those in authority.

Let me quote to you from 1 Timothy chapter 2, verses one through three. "I exhort, therefore, that first of all, supplications, prayers, intercession, and giving of thanks be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty."

For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour. I believe with all my heart that prayer changes things, and I also believe that as Christians we are obligated to pray for those in authority over us, be they kings, judges, sheriffs or magistrates. We cannot shun this responsibility. I also believe our public servants would appreciate our prayers. Let me ask you, Christian, have you prayed for your elected public officials recently? Have you informed any of your public officials that you are praying for them? I challenge you to either call or write, or speak in person to your public servants and tell them you are praying that God will give them the wisdom to carry out their duty in the right way.

Any man who knows that the Christians are behind him in his work will make every effort to show himself worthy of their faith. Let us get behind our officials in the right way and I am sure things will be different. Instead of criticism we need prayer. After all, we are the ones who elect and put people into office to represent us. They are our servants and we have an obligation to them. They also have an obligation to us in giving honest service. I believe that Christians are responsible for much of the corruption in political circles today because they do not meet their obligations. They fail to talk with their officials. They see and know that corrupt practices are carried on and do nothing about it, except criticize and complain. If we pray and ask God's leading, then we have the responsibility to put action to our prayers.

Christians, see that the right people are chosen to serve, and then see that they serve in the right way. They cannot serve alone. They need your help and assistance. Will you promise to pray for your officials and not to criticize? Then let them know it. I want to take this opportunity to say to each my public officials, I am praying for you every day. May God give you the wisdom that is needed to carry out your work in the right way. "Put them in mind to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work." Titus 3:1

Praise From Oklahoma

Hazard Herald,
Gentlemen:

Recently you published a story and picture of Judge J. C. (Corbett) Cornett, and as a result I have received mail from Carr's Fork, Hazard, Lexington, Detroit, Mich., and Oklahoma City. Dr. J. J. Cornett, retired Colonel from US Naval Dentistry, brought his Hazard Herald to me at my hotel.

I marvel at your ability to reproduce these pictures to make them look exactly like the originals produced in the Oklahoma City Times two million dollar plant.

Surely your patrons and subscribers must be proud of the Herald.

Parents Make The Difference

Perhaps the most encouraging thing about the Robinson Elementary School's success story as described in the article below is that it is being "written" by local people.

Without waiting for the federal government to come to its rescue, the community of Ary has accepted the challenge, and the responsibility, for improving its school.

Through the intense, personal concern of the parents of the children in school at Robinson Elementary, the school has been brought to the threshold of excellence.

Parents visit the school. They are acquainted with its operation, with the teachers, and its principal. They care about the quality of education in their children's school, care enough to come to the school's rescue with funds and volunteer work when the need arises. With the established school system providing the essentials of operation, the community served by Robinson

Elementary has provided that extra margin of quality on behalf of the children.

We do not mean to imply, of course, that this is the only community in our county that enthusiastically supports its school. There are several others who work just as hard and care just as much.

But it is true that the Robinson story does not apply to all communities.

In some places, the parents seem unaware that there is even a school in their midst.

Until this is corrected, until each parent of every child assumes a personal responsibility for his child's education, then all the various types of school aid put together will not improve them substantially.

(The Herald welcomes news and comment from all communities who feel their school's story would be of interest to the public).

Let's Be Gracious Hosts

Buckhorn Lake State Park will begin what should be its biggest season next Saturday when the lodge is opened to guests and the water is fully available to fishermen, swimmers and boating enthusiasts.

Last year 239,244 people visited Buckhorn Lake State Park, an increase of 50,000 over the 1963 total. With the new lodge in operation for a full season, it is safe to predict that the attendance will continue to grow this year.

Tourists all over the state are becoming interested in Buckhorn as a place for a relaxed weekend or full vacation, and of course they are pleased to see the park season begin.

But no one in Kentucky is more glad to see the park open than we native Perry Countians, because we remember how it was before we had Buckhorn Lake. Like television, we wonder what we did without it.

Implicit in our pleasure with such a beautiful lake and lodge in our midst, however, is a consequent responsibility upon the shoulders of us local people.

We must remember that the presence of a state park in Perry County makes hosts out of all of us, and a host always has a responsibility to his guests.

We are meeting that responsibility, in part, with the "house cleaning" we've been doing lately, work that is yet unfinished but which has made measurable progress since the county-wide beautification project began almost two months ago, particularly in the Buckhorn end of the county.

But our responsibility goes deeper than that. We have the responsibility of being courteous to our visitors, of responding with an attitude of "welcome, stranger!" when we see an out-of-state license tag.

Our service stations owe it to the public that supports them to be courteous and helpful, and to maintain clean rest rooms and premises at all times.

If there are any so-called "speed traps" left in Perry County, these should be eliminated immediately, for nothing is more damaging to the reputation of a community than unfair and partial enforcement of traffic laws, with respect to tourists.

There are many ways in which we local people, in the normal course of our daily lives, can help to create an image of hospitality for those visitors of ours from other places. We owe it to them, to the park, and to ourselves to build such an image, and remain faithful to it.

National Library Week

National Library Week is being observed in Perry County this week, but certainly not in the grand style more progressive places will celebrate it.

This is because too few of us in the county are interested in books and libraries. Too few of us appreciate the importance of them in living an improved and enlightened life.

Part of this is because we just plain don't have many libraries in the county. But then again, we don't have libraries because too few of us care whether we do or not.

The Bolivar Davis Memorial Library in Hazard struggles valiantly to supply the county with books. Its stacks are open to the county public, and its bookmobile is on the road three days a week. And of course the Homeplace Library and bookmobile have long since won for themselves warm spots in the hearts of many Perry Countians.

But in spite of these efforts, still most of our school children are without an adequate and ready supply of books, particularly books for research and reference.

Some of the county schools, on their own initiative, are beginning to establish small libraries. Certainly this is admirable, and deserving of all the support that those in a position to render support can muster.

But until every child in Perry County has handy access to all the books his young mind hungers for, then beyond feeling thankful for our present limited library facilities, perhaps the most honest way for us to observe National Library Week is to use it as a time for recognizing our shortcomings, and for determining to overcome them.

Death Penalty Reconsidered

As much of intelligent America is now beginning to do, the governors of Kentucky and Tennessee have taken strong, personal stands against capital punishment. Governor Clement of Tennessee dramatized his feelings when he commuted the death sentences of three men to life imprisonment. Governor Breathitt declared a moratorium on executions in Kentucky until the people and the legislature have had a chance to reconsider the wisdom, and the humanity, of their use.

There are many sound and moral arguments against giving the state the right to kill an individual, but there aren't any good reasons for it.

The main argument in favor of capital punishment is that it serves as a deterrent to would-be criminals. This old notion has been disproved by several states who do not use capital punishment but still have lower rates of serious crime than those states that still execute.

Garden Club Honors

The excellent showing of our local garden clubs at the state Garden Club meeting last week merely confirmed what we here in Hazard and Perry County already knew: that our local ladies are second to none when it comes to interest in and dedication to the uplifting of our environment by beautification of the landscape.

Awards won by both the Perry County and Mountain View Garden Clubs—particularly Mountain View, which this year had a virtual monopoly on first place honors in most categories—are nice to have, and to remember. We are glad the clubs were so honored.

But a reward of greater and more lasting importance is that which our community receives from the generous efforts of the Garden Clubs. A beautiful landscape is a trophy to be prized forever, and we thank the clubs for their contributions toward this end.

Enthusiastic PTA Provides A 'Margin Of Excellence'

By Gurney Norman

Last week the PTA of Robinson Elementary School at Ary was among 8 out of 850 Kentucky schools to receive the rare "200 per cent award" from the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Next week, if school principal James Forest Cornett's wish comes true, Robinson Elementary will be the first Perry County school to be certified by the State Board of Education as a Standard Elementary School.

There is an intimate connection between the two. For it is largely through the influence of Robinson's enthusiastic PTA that the school has been brought to the threshold of excellence, uplifted to the levels required by the state for "Standard" certification.

The 200 per cent membership award—both parents of every child at Robinson belong to the PTA—is only the most recent symbol of the interest and, to use a teacher's description, the "dedication" of the parents of Robinson's students.

A more tangible symbol is the school's new 1,300 volume library, created largely by funds raised by PTA-sponsored events such as carnivals and community dinners, with help from the Perry County Board of Education and various book-donors that most recently included Senator John Sherman Cooper.

Several schools in Perry County have shown sharp improvement in their facilities and teaching staff in recent years, but always in the way of obtaining state certification as "standard" has been the absence of adequate libraries. The state insists that a school must have its own library, containing a specific list of books, before it can qualify as standard.

And while the several schools, supported by their own active PTAs, are making progress, Robinson Elementary is the first to come up with its own state-approved library.

The library is housed in what used to be a large classroom on the second floor of Robinson Elementary's handsome stone building, constructed by the WPA in 1936.

It is completely furnished with new tables, chairs, shelves, book racks and magazine and newspaper stands, made available by the County School Board. The floor is freshly covered with attractive tile, the walls are painted a soothing pastel. And in addition to these physical facilities, the library is also blessed with Mrs. Cora Combs, a librarian who devotes all her work time to her library.

The library, installed this year, still has plenty of room remaining on its shelves for more books. But it has already made a big difference in the lives of the students at Robinson Elementary, most of whom had never seen a library before.

Youngsters who might otherwise have gone on to high school ignorant of the mysteries of the Dewey Decimal System now confidently pore over the card catalog, looking up books by themselves.

Each class at Robinson spends a prescribed amount of time in the library each week, according to a schedule maintained by Mrs. Combs. There they may check out books, do research in the reference volumes, listen to Mrs. Combs give instruction in use of the library or in the case of the very young students, hear Mrs. Combs read a favorite story aloud.

An informal poll of several classrooms at Robinson revealed that the students themselves, even first graders, have a personal awareness of the value of a well-stocked library in their school. Hands fly up when asked how many appreciate their library, but stay firmly down in response to any teasing request for votes in favor of taking the library away.

The library is not the only contribution the Robinson PTA has made to its school. Through a series of fund-raising projects, six elaborate wall-maps of the world, costing $40 each, were purchased for the school. The PTA helps the school system completely supply first graders with their essential materials. New audio-visual aids such as a movie projector and tape recorder are on order. Four sets of six swings each are now being built for the playground.

Future targets the PTA is now shooting at are an asphalt outdoor recreation court, and more instructional supplies for the individual teacher.

"I think we have one of the greatest PTAs in this or any county," says 6th grade teacher Archie Fugate. "We've got PTA members who go out and work for us, to get the things we need."

"The strength of our school comes from the parents," Mrs. Sylvia Allen, 7th grade English teacher said. "It's through their cooperation that we can obtain as much material as we have in our school."

Principal Cornett shares this opinion of the school's PTA. He describes it as "outstanding," and adds that "anything with in reason that the school needs, the PTA gets it for us, if it's possible."

Mr. Cornett is obviously one reason for the high level of mutual respect that exists between his school and the parents.

A man well-qualified for his job by virtue of his Master's Degree in school administration, as well as 12 additional hours toward a Ph.D., earned at Eastern Kentucky State College in Richmond, Mr. Cornett is well aware of the importance of involving the parents in the school their children attend.

"My office is always open to them," he says. "I'm never too busy to talk with the parents." He has extended a standing invitation to the parents to examine the function of the school, including its records.

If Mr. Cornett understands better than most the community his school serves perhaps it is because he has been there before. A native of Dwarf, he graduated in 1950 from the old Robinson High School, in the same building over which he now presides.

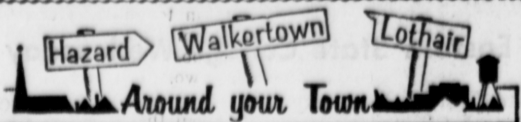

Even if, for some reason, the standard certification does not come through next week, you'll still never be able to convince Robinson PTA its school is not among the best in Eastern Kentucky. And the school's teachers and principal will put up the same argument on behalf of their PTA.

One of many useful items provided by the Robinson PTA is this wallmap of the world. The PTA gave the school six of them, at a cost of $60 each. Sixth grade teacher Mr. Archie Fugate observes three of his students, Roger Noble, Karen Smith and Glenna Sue Smith pointing out an Asian country.

Viper Homemakers Club Studies "What Easter Means To Me."

The Viper Homemakers Club met at the Jeff Post Office building in the recreation room on Wednesday, April 13 at 1 p. m. with Mrs. Norman Combs as hostess.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. M. F. Halcomb and the devotion was given by Mrs. Norman Combs on "What Easter Means To Me."

The disciples at the table ate the bread, drank the wine. The Master in their midst foretold his betrayal and the sign:

There was shock and horror and doubt. A tear in every eye as those at the table murmured "Lord Is It I?"

Yet men have always betrayed him. Since Judas first dipped bread, disappointed, crucified him. By the kind of lives they led.

"Today I sat at his table and I thought I heard him sigh as I asked for his forgiveness and whispered 'Lord Was It I?'"

What Easter Means To Me Easter used to mean to me: A lovely blossoming dogwood tree, Downy bunnies, gentle showers, Fancy clothes and gay bright flowers.

Easter used to mean to me: Chimes ringing out so merrily, Egg hunts giving children thrills, Peeps of most unwelcome bills. Easter used to mean to me: A spring vacation by the sea, Courters featuring greeting cards, New green grass upon the swards.

But now Easter means to me: The blessed Christ of Calvary, Arose from the tomb in days of yore and is alive forever more! The devotion was then closed by all being remembered in prayer.

The club was happy to have our Home Demonstration Agent back after a leave of absence and our members Mrs. M. F. Halcomb and Mrs. Salie Hall who had been vacationing in Florida this winter.

It was discussed at the meeting for our club to do some worth while project for the Jeff and Viper communities.

Either at Post Offices or Schools by planting flowers or a cleanup somewhere in the vicinity that maybe would be an over sight otherwise. Since all of the members were not present it was continued until the next meeting.

It was then voted to have a talent show at the Dilce Combs High School with a bake sale following. A date will be announced later. All homemakers and their families will be most welcomed to the event.

Appalachian Poetry Award To Be Given To Ann Cobb At Festival

The First Annual Alice Lloyd College Award in Appalachian Poetry will be awarded to Ann Cobb, for her work entitled KINSFOLKS, as part of the events of the Art Festival to take place May 1, at Alice Lloyd College.

lege (now named Alice Lloyd College) was a student under Ann Cobb at the Hindman Settlement School. Like Alice Lloyd, founder of Caney Junior College in her memory, Ann Cobb, came to the Kentucky of the twentieth century to devote her life for the fight in overcoming the backward ways in education and to struggle for educational progress in the mountains.

In her book Miss Cobb blended English verse forms. Mountain speech was significant because it is this that still survives, as a part of the greatness in writers as they illustrate the still surviving American tone of people in the Appalachian Region.

Monroe Shepard Relates Story of 1863 Events In Kentucky

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story was written by Mr. Monroe Shepard of Poplar Street in Hazard. His father was Clem Shepard and his mother was Ruth Muselwhite. Mr. Shepard was a mine foreman for 23 years at the old Algoma Block Coal Company at Lothair. He has been a Perry County resident for the past 51 years. He is 71 years of age. Mr. Shepard keeps well abreast of world affairs and is eager to state his point of view with anyone who cares to talk with him.

This a true story of what happened here in 1863. The state of Kentucky got up an army of 1,000 men, they were known as the home guards and their purpose was to fight the guerillas. They were stationed in about the same location as the Gene Baker Motor Company.

In October 1863 my father came up in what is now the backwoods to pick some Chestnuts and while he was up there he was captured by a confederate soldier.

The soldier informed my father that he had suddenly been made a prisoner, so my father agreed to the terms put forth to him and invited the soldier to pick chestnuts with him. The soldier accepted but he made one sad mistake, he let his gun get behind his back as they were picking up the chestnuts and my father picked up the musket and in turn made the soldier his prisoner.

My father knew that if he went back to camp with this man he would be killed so they sat down and began to think up a good story to tell the captain of the home guards so they could spare the soldiers life.

They agreed to tell the captain that the soldier had run away from his own army and wanted to join the home guards.

My father and the Confederate soldier fought many a battle together and didn't receive a scratch.

I would like to tell a little about the officers of early Perry County. Lue Lewis was Circuit Judge and Ira Fields was Commonwealth Attorney. Frank Horne was sheriff, and I have been told that Sheriff Horne never carried a gun.

Before any of the old men could receive a pension it

Kentucky Restaurants Will Help Promote Kentucky Homecoming Year

The tempo of Kentucky Louisville's participation in Homecoming Year activities Kentucky Homecoming Year has picked up sharply.

At its annual convention in Louisville April 20-23, the Kentucky Restaurant Association are now 48 cities, towns and officially dedicated the association and its member restaurants throughout the state to promote Kentucky Homecoming Year.

A J. Grisanti, president of the association, said all restaurants would be urged and encouraged to give special attention and service to out-of-state visitors this year, and to make the famous Kentucky cooking even better - if that's possible, he said.

To kick off the association's Homecoming Year dedication, Governor Edward T. Breathitt pinned a Homecoming badge on Mrs. Ruby Sparks, a waitress from Lancaster, Ky., symbolizing and representing the restaurant business of the state.

And at the opening of the association's convention the Mayor of Kentucky's largest city, Louisville's William O. Cowger, formally proclaimed

Athletic Dinner Held April 22

A dinner was held on April 22, in the Elizabeth Watts Building, honoring the Hindman Basketball A and B teams and cheerleaders. This dinner was sponsored by the Hindman Lions Club.

Present were the teams, cheerleaders, coaches and Lions, accompanied by their wives. Food was prepared by Miss Edith Orick and Home Economic Dept. The lunchroom workers assisted in the serving.

During a brief speech making period Danny Watkins, a city, Louisville's William O. Cowger, formally proclaimed took an act of Congress to get it approved. Mrs. John W. Langley was congresswoman at that time and she was the one that got the pension approved. My father and Uncle Bill Wells, were the first to receive pension checks.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Shepard

My father was a Baptist preacher for 55 years and it was his belief that if he had been the cause of one soul being saved he considered his time well spent.

Transportation in those days was by wagon, they could take short cuts through the hills to haul their goods.

One night a group of men were camped for the night in an old shack when they were attacked by the gorillas. My father and another man hid in some shocks of fodder to keep from being killed. I have heard my father tell of hearing the bullets hitting around the fodder shocks.

My father and his mother and father came to Kentucky when it was a neutral state in the war and he joined the home guards at Wootton's Creek which was in Perry County then.

My Father was born September 17, 1843 and died in October of 1930.

Since I have been writing about the Civil War I would like to say a few things for Mr. Lincoln. He said in his first inauguration farewell to his neighbors on February 11, 1861. He parted with the words: "I have lived a half a century and have passed from a young man to an old man. Here my children have been born and one is buried." I now leave not knowing when or whether I may return with a task greater than that which rested upon Washington, without the assistance of that Divine Being, I cannot succeed; with that assistance I cannot fail."

He told the students and faculty that "our thoughts are based upon silent assumption. Here is the nature of prejudice, a judging beforehand."

He defined prejudices as an unreasoned feeling or aversion against either a person, group, or object, and said that "the greater part of our lives resolve around our unreasoned feelings."

Continuing, Coffey said, "It is a convenient myth, but a

Farmers Urged To Make Co. Green

Farmers who are gearing up for springtime operations are urged to "make Knott County green" by including conservation in their plans and thinking. Let's all take more pride in our farms and develop them to their fullest potentials.

The Knott County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, which consists of Daniel Cornett, Hindman, Ky., Hiram Slone, Lark-lane, Ky., and Webster Adams, Pineetop, Ky., are anxious to help all farmers by cost-sharing with them through the federal money set up for this assistance in our county.

Now is a good time to plan and carry out needed conservation practices. You are invited to discuss your plans for conservation with the Agricultural Committee. Our county program is set up to pay 80% of the average cost in the county.

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS FELLOW WOMBLES

The news has traveled over this county like wildfire... HENRY WOMBLES IS RUNNING FOR COUNTY JUDGE!!! The election is drawing near... The people are beginning to talk... And so the question on the lips of every man, woman and child in Perry is... WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS FELLOW WOMBLES!!!!

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS... That dares run for office against a man that has been in politics all his life, and one that has been on the ballot in Perry County almost every election for over Forty years.

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS... dares go into the far corners of our county and tell the people that roads all over our rural sections CAN BE BUILT and then show them a copy of the Appalachian Bill to prove it.

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS... That dares tell the civic minded people and the legitimate labor unions that they should work together and pull shoulder to shoulder if they are to attract industry for our county.

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS... That dares to say that the Welfare Fund was wrong in taking away the Hospital Cards and benefits from their members after these very same members made it what it is.

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS... That dares say that if it were not for the Small Truck Mines and the Truck miners and the Coal Truckers it would be hard to get a dollar changed on the main street of Hazard.

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS... That dares to come out openly and flat-footed against Lawlessness and dynamiting that threatens the peace and welfare of our people. And against the LONG HAIRS that would destroy our freedom, and our way of life.

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS... That dares tell the people that in a depressed area their TAXES should be cut in half so they will have something left out of their income to repair their homes and build fences around their farms.

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS... That dares say that every citizen of Perry County should be free to work where, when and for who he pleases. That he shouldn't be met in the early hours before daylight and pulled from his pickup truck knocked down and stomped in the road and his lunch bucket kicked over in the creek.

Yes the people are beginning to talk and the question is

Pendleton Presides At Area Seminar

George H. Pendleton, President of Associated Credit Bureaus of Kentucky, presided at a semi-annual Board of Directors meeting April 24 and 25 in Louisville.

Meeting at Holiday Inn N. E., the ACB of Kentucky Board reviewed the accomplishments of their area-seminar program initiated in the fall of 1964. This program has been highly successful in bringing credit reporting and collection training to employees of credit bureaus throughout the state.

Credit Bureaus belonging to ACB of A compile more than 100 million reports, with a credit summary of some type being made on an individual in the United States every half-second.

Simpson Speaks At Kiwanis Club Meeting Tuesday

Plans were made to enlarge upon the program during the next eighteen months by adding seminars for Medical Credits to assist physicians, dentists and hospitals with their credit service and collection problems.

Associated Credit Bureaus of Kentucky is an exclusive organization comprised only of Credit Bureaus which are members of Associated Credit Bureaus of America (ACB of A).

George Pendleton

Robert Simpson, Field Executive, Boy Scouts of America, was guest speaker at the weekly meeting of Hazard Kiwanis Club, Tuesday evening, April 20, at Don's Restaurant. Dr. A. P. Gullett was program chairman.

Using "Scouting" as his subject, Mr. Simpson complained of the apathetic attitude many adults and too many boys exhibit toward the scouting movement. Because of this attitude many youths, seeking the easiest way of life, drift into "gangs" and resulting gang-warfare. To combat this Scouting is designed to teach the "American Way of Life" by doing rather than talking. Besides teaching crafts and outdoor life by doing and living, Boy Scouts are taught character and citizenship by daily practice of good deeds.

The club welcomed Elmer Roll back into active membership. Because of ill health, Mr. Roll had been on inactive status but is now able to resume active participation in the club.

Thomas Hall, Lexington, Kentucky, was a visiting Kiwanian.

Zing into spring! Chevrolet Impala

Chevrolet Impala Super Sport Coupe—one of two bucket-seated beauties for '65.

People who buy other big expensive-looking cars get one thing you won't (big expensive-looking payments)

It looks like a big car. And is—by almost any standard you want to apply.

Width? Nobody builds a car as much as one inch wider. Length? It grew three inches this year. Roominess? Every closed model's got three inches more shoulder room, front and rear, and more leg and foot room up front too. Luxury? Nice little touches like the look of mellow walnut across the Impala's instrument panel. And big touches. Like the fineness of the same Body by Fisher workmanship that makes some of America's most expensive cars look so expensive. How about the ride? Chevrolet engineers took the Jet-smooth one and smoothed it out even more this year. Also made it more stable by widening the wheel stance. Price? That's where Chevrolets fall way short of the other big expensive-looking cars. But we wouldn't have it any other way. Would you?

One last question: How soon can you make a good spring buy on a Chevrolet? One last answer: Just as soon as you can get down to your Chevrolet dealer's.

Motorists Urged To Use Seat Belts

For all the coaxing and urging directed at the motoring public to install and use seat belts in their motor vehicles, it is estimated that less than 50 per cent of them take this life saving advice.

Yet, the value of using seat belts has been proved through the numerous studies and investigations conducted by federal, state and local safety agencies. Their conclusion: If every person in the country would use a seat belt whenever traveling, whether in town or on the highways, some 5,000 lives would be saved annually.

In case of collision, that seat belt which costs so little and takes less than a second to fasten, could save your life. It can and will keep you inside your car where, according to studies, you have a better chance of survival.

From 1962-1964, a survey on traffic accidents and injuries was conducted in the Commonwealth by the Automotive Crash Research team from Cornell University. Of more than 1,200 injury cases studies, 182 persons were injured seriously as the result of being ejected from their vehicle; 30 were injured fatally.

Too many people just don't use seat belts. They are too optimistic about their lives — they do act, or will not, believe that a serious accident can happen to them or to their families.

But, it did happen to 911 Kentuckians last year. And it is going to happen to more than 800 people in the Commonwealth this year, according to the Kentucky Department of Public Safety.

It is going to happen unless all Kentuckians exercise more caution and courtesy while behind the wheel of a car and take every defensive measure they can to stay alive.

Using seat belts is a defensive driving measure.

Even those persons who have seat belts installed in their cars often neglect to take that second to fasten them. Some use them only when driving on the highway at high speeds, believing that only under these conditions do serious accidents occur.

The truth is that three out of four accidents happen within a 25 mile radius of home and one-half of the serious accidents occur at speeds of 40 miles per hour or less.

When traveling at speeds as low as 20 miles per hour, adults can sustain critical head injuries in a collision. At speeds of 60 miles per hour or more, the injuries suffered by the occupants of an auto become gory beyond description.

Whether traveling Kentucky's rural roads or zooming down one of our superhighways, seat belts could save your life. There is every reason to use a seat belt but not one reason not to use one.

Enjoys Guest Editorial

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:
To The Editor:

April 20, 1965

I want you to know how much I enjoyed the Guest Editorial article by a resident of Oaeida.

I was born and raised in Perry County, finished high school there and attended Lees Jr. College in Jackson. I had classmates there who went on to become teachers, nurses, technicians, etc. These were not students from out of state, but from the heart of the Appalachian region. They also stayed in Appalachia to render to their own fellow Kentuckians, the services for which they had taken the time to be trained.

If this can be called ignorance, incest, and illiteracy, then God help our country, because the entire nation is on the same level as the Appalachian Mountains. In every section of the country, there are these who, given half a chance, will use 95% of their potential to help themselves and their community then there are also those who have no ambition or desire to help anyone, least of all, themselves. This mixed situation has existed since time began and will continue as time goes on.

In every good man there is a portion of bad, in every bad man there is a portion of good.

I know of a community that certainly needs a cleanup campaign launched, but it's so infested, and corrupted that it would take innumerable years to complete the project. I'm speaking of course, of Washington, D.C.

Lets let Washington, D.C. be the forest and say that the American people are too close to the forest to see the trees.

May 2-8 Is Ky. Immunization Week In State

Kentucky's annual Immunization Week, sponsored by the Kentucky Medical Association in cooperation with the Kentucky State Department of Health and a member of other statewide organizations, has rolled around once again.

Governor Edward T. Breathitt has signed a proclamation designating the week of May 2-8 as Immunization Week, a time for all Kentuckians to make certain they have protection against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, poliomyelitis, measles, and smallpox.

Dr. Russell E. Teague, Commissioner of Health, pointed out that, through immunization, these diseases could be eradicated from Kentucky. "Not one death or handicapping condition resulting from these diseases is necessary, if the people across the state would have their immunizations and keep up their booster shots as recommended by their private physician. This week, check your family's immunization record, and see your physician for any protection that is needed."

Kentucky's immunization law states that all children should be protected against polio, tetanus, diphtheria, whooping cough, and smallpox before their first birthday. "This is most important," Dr. Teague said, "as these diseases are most serious in infants and young children. Immunizations are readily available from your physician or your county health department, so protect your baby and follow your physician's advice about booster shots throughout life."

He is a 1962 graduate of Hazard High School and attended Johnson, Hardburly, Pearl Baker, Bonnyman; Geneva Napier, Dwarf; Irene Smith, Hazard; Blanche Shepherd, Avawam; Anna Spencer, Keavy; Gracie Grigsby, Haddix.

Combs Will Speak At Conference

Former Governor Bert T. Combs, Lexington, will address the introductory luncheon May 19 of the Kentucky Clean-Up and Beautification Conference, the state to attract new industry and an increased tourist trade.

The meeting, first of its kind in the state, will take place May 19-20 at the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington, and will be divided into work-discussion panels, formal talks by prominent speakers, and recognition awards ceremonies.

It was Combs who, shortly after becoming governor, inaugurated the "Make Kentucky a Cleaner, Greener Land" campaign, which introduced intensive community drives across the state.

As a result of Governor Combs' pioneering efforts, Mrs. Connie Quinn, Natural Resources director for beautification pointed out, "Kentucky won national recognition in 1962 in the form of two prominent awards—the Keep America Beautiful Award and the Bronze Seal Award."

The latter award recognized the unique Floral Clock and other significant improvements on the Frankfort capitol grounds.

HELP A HOMETOWN BOY

I am a candidate for Magistrate in the Republican Primary May 25 No. 1 on the Ballot in our 4th Magisterial District of Perry County.

I am the son of the late Old Man Jim Davidson, whom many of you knew. My father was one of Hazard's fire policemen and barbers.

I am a veteran and also served in the National Guard. I was a barber in Huff's Barber Shop for some time. I am now too old to work.

I am not asking for sympathy. I am asking for your vote, which will be greatly appreciated. Don't Stamp Me, Stamp My Ballot May 25.

Thank you,

Peru Davidson

WHY SIT YE IDLE?

T. H. Harding

Unemployment is perennial in world economy. It is a tragedy to see able-bodied men and women idle in the market place of life. In one sense the problem is simple; we have more workers than jobs. Nowhere is this distressing problem more acute and evident than in the average church congregation. There is much spiritual unemployment, idleness, and just plain loafing on the part of too many Church members. In the 20th Chapter of Matthew Jesus put the loafers to work. The Church loafers still need be put to work for the average church is much like the market place of the first century. Too much of the "work of the church" is being done by too few. "Why should ye idle all the day long?"

There is an apparent confusion about the "the work of the Church". The places of responsibility (Church Offices) are the means to an end; the exaltation of Jesus Christ. The real work of the church is not "holding down a church office" it is done day in and day out—Making spiritual beachheads in the business world, Government, Education, Labor, Home, and the Professions. It is doing your daily job for the Glory of God. What counts is not what goes on in the pews while the preacher is proclaiming the word, but what happens when the pews are empty and the preacher is silent! Does it carry over into downtown, into the Shop, into the School, into the Home? The real work of the Church is done outside of its walls. It is in this area where the spiritual job opportunities are unlimited. It is here that our carefully spoken Theology is hammered out and forged into meaningful instruments of righteousness for our community and nation.

Isn't it about time you too ceased being a spiritual hobo on spiritual relief along the highway of life?
